

Emotional Trauma Workshop

PARTS

Internal Family Systems Intensive

WHO IS THIS WORKSHOP RIGHT FOR?

Anyone interested in developing a deeper knowledge of themselves so that all parts can co-exist while allowing the Self to lead

ALL ABOUT THIS WORKSHOP

Internal Family Systems (IFS), developed by Meadows Senior Fellow Dr. Richard Schwartz, is an evidence-based treatment modality that relates our internal world to a relational system similar to a family.

PARTS (Personal Awareness & Recovery Through Self) is a non-pathologizing and empowering IFS intensive that focuses on the internal relationship between parts of the Self, which are adaptations from adverse experiences. Parts function like subpersonalities, holding aspects of our identity that work to gain influence within the internal system, and can be self-defeating.

Participants will work to process these parts and return the system to a state of being self-assured and relaxed, allowing the Self to lead. Those who complete this workshop are better able to listen, respond to feedback, establish healthy boundaries, and build self-competence for any future adverse experiences.

"[The SELF is that] innate presence in each of us. It is the seat of consciousness that brings balance and harmony equipped with qualities such as perspective, presence, patience, playfulness, and persistence."

– Dr. Richard Schwartz
